TWO OF THE CZARS
OF WORLD'S SERIES

Connelly (top) and Rigler.

Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 9.—The Philadelphia Athletics swamped the New York National League champions today under a fusillade of hits, defeating the Giants by the score of 8 to 2. Bush's fine pitching, together with Collins' hitting and sparkling defense were bright features of the Athletics' game. Tesreau was found for five runs in the first two innings. The New York Giants and the Philadelphia Athletics, pennant winners of the National and American leagues crossed bats here this afternoon in the third contest of the world's baseball series. 35,000 persons undisturbed by a constant threat of heavy rain, swarmed the vast concrete stadium to view the struggle. Each team with a victory to its credit was determined to win the day's game.

A soggy field drenched by hours of hard rain slowed up the fielding of both Giants and Athletics.

Umpire Rigler inspected the grounds at 10:30 o'clock and reported the diamond in shape to play if there was no more rain.

The first to enter was David Jones, of Scranton, Pa. He had got in line at 3 a. m. only to collapse from exhaustion later. The police took him in tow and when other fans learned under what circumstances he had given up his place, many insisted that he go ahead when he recovered.

Jones explained that he waited in line here nearly all night for the opening game, duplicated the performance at Philadelphia then returned to New York for today's game.

Cheers Greet Teams.
Great cheers greeted the teams. Both Mathewson and Witte were forced to doff their caps.

The sun appeared at one o'clock. The crowds filled every seat hundreds clamoring for admittance.

Merkle was at first base. Batteries for New York, Tesreau and McLean.

For Philadelphia, Bush and Schang. Umpires: Rigler behind the plate, Connelly at the bases, Klem in left field, and Egan in right.

First Inning.
Philadelphia: Bush out. Fletcher to Merkle. Oldring singled. Collins singled. Oldring going to third. After two strikes Baker singled to left, scoring Oldring. Collins was held on second. Collins and Baker worked a double steal. McInnes fanned. Collins and Baker scored when Fletcher threw Strunk's grounder in to the grand stand, Strunk going to second. Barry popped to Fletcher. 3 runs, 3 hits, 1 error.

New York: Herzog out. Barry to McInnes. Doyle made an infield hit. Fletcher hit by a pitched ball. Burns flied to Collins who doubled to Doyle on second. No runs, 1 hit, no errors.

Second Inning.
Philadelphia: Bush out. Bush flied to Murray. Murphy beat out a bunt. Oldring singled. Murphy going to third. Oldring stole second. Murphy and Oldring scored on Collins' drive over Doyle's head. Collins was out at second when Doyle took Baker's drive and touched second. It was a wonderful play. 2 runs, 3 hits, no errors.

New York: Shafer out. Collins to McInnes. Murray popped to Collins. McLean fouled out to Schang. No runs, hits or errors.

Third Inning.
Philadelphia: McInnes flied to Burns. Strunk flied to Burns. Bar-twirlers, and cool and dependable in a crisis. McGraw himself was not slow to express his confidence as to how this problem would work out. "In comparison with what our opponents have left, my remaining pitching staff looks mighty good to me," he declared.

Connie Mack was less explicit on this point but apparently he had no fear of the outcome. "We are not a bit discouraged by our defeat yesterday," he said, and I expect to win the series."

Three Giants Crippled.
But it was not to be denied that the crippling of Myers and Merkle with the continued inability of Fred Snodgrass to play his game was likely to prove a severe handicap, to McGraw's men.

The possible batting order was as follows:
Philadelphia: E. Murphy, r. f.; Oldring, l. f.; Collins, 2b.; Baker, 3b.; McInnes, 1b.; Strunk, c. f.; Barry, ss.; Schang, c.; Brown, Shawkey or Bush, pitchers.

New York: Herzog, 3b.; Doyle, 2b.; Fletcher, ss.; Burns, l. f.; Shafer, r. f.; Murray, r. f.; McLean, c.; Witte, 1b.; Tesreau and Demaree, pitchers.

ABUNDANCE OF DEER
IN NORTH OF STATE

Deputy Game Warden Conrad Asmuth Reports That Woods Are Full of Deer and Partridge.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Madison, Wis., Oct. 9.—Officials of the state game warden's staff prophesy an abundant supply of deer for the hunting season which opens Nov. 11 and continues twenty days. Deputy Game Warden Conrad Asmuth, just back from northern Wisconsin, brings word of woods full of deer and partridges.

Absence of forest fires has tended to increase of wild game. Mrs. Asmuth reported that her two brothers, on a recent trip down the Flambeau river, near Park Falls to Laysmith, counted 160 deer.

To date this year the game warden's department has issued 55 non-resident game hunting licenses at $25 each, as compared with 43 on the same day last year, and 526 non-resident small game licenses at $10 each, as compared with 478 at the same time last year.

Final Score:
Philadelphia—8 runs; 12 hit; 1 error.
New York—2 runs; 5 hits; 1 error.

Rain Cloud Break Up.
A rift in the clouds this morning encouraged fans to expect fair weather for the third game of the world baseball championship series, this afternoon. Notwithstanding the official weather forecast for more rain the rain had ceased today.

With a victory safely tucked away for each club the Giants and Athletics prepared today for the third contest for the world's championship, each confident that this afternoon would open the road to a victory in the series.

The only doleful note this morning was from the weather bureau which insisted the probability of more rain filled with greater assurance than on the opening day because both teams had tested each other's mettle. New York fans began to flock to the stadium when it appeared that the weather was clearing off.

Crowds Enthusiastic.
The crowd was enthusiastic and optimistic. The wonderful pitching of Mathewson had done wonders with the spirit of the club's followers. Philadelphia, however, was in no wise dismayed by the defeat their team had in the first game at Shibe park.

Tesreau and Demaree, one of whom Philadelphia expected to start today, are practically strangers to the White Elephants. But a Philadelphia fan who did not confidently expect the clouters of his club to solve the shoots of either marksman with little difficulty, was a rare individual.

The argument from the Giant's point of view was a different one, and was freely voiced by New York supporters before the game. It was held that with both Bender and Plank temporarily set aside and with Mathewson and Marquard out of the reckoning for a moment, the twirlers McGraw had left to rely upon far out-classed those Connie Mack could draw upon.

Mack's Four Recruits.
In numbers the superiority lay with Mack who had given a season's hard work to the schooling of Brown, Bush, Houck and Shawkey. In quality, however, New York claimed that McGraw was far ahead with Tesreau a man who has been through the fire of a world championship series and who showed up so brilliantly in the few innings he pitched on Tuesday at the Polo grounds, and Demaree, a leader among this year's national

Eastern Meeting of Bankers Declared to Have Defeat of Bill As Its Purpose.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, Oct. 9.—Should the administration currency bill be thrown over to the regular session of the congress beginning December 1st, it may be confronted with more delay, for the senate, by special order, has already apportioned all its time to January 1st for other business. Talking that into consideration, administration supporters today redoubled their efforts to get the bill out of the way before the end of the extra session.

Answer Attacks.
Attacks on the administration currency bill at the American Bankers' association convention in Boston were sharply answered in the senate today by administration democrats. Chairman Owen of the banking committee answering a query by Senator Overman as to whether the bankers were making "concerted efforts to prevent the passage of the currency bill," replied that he did not attribute an "ulterior purpose" to the bankers, but that "the Boston meeting was for the obvious purpose of opposing the bill."

Repeal Act Blocked.
Repeal of the five per cent differential clause of the new tariff law against which many foreign nations have protested generally and which has been retailed against the United States, was lined up today for passage by congressional leaders, but was blocked temporarily by the fight to secure a quorum in the house.

Democratic Leaders Unmoved.
Simmons, after conferences with Solicitor Folk of the state department, were agreed that an appeal was the way out of a foreign tangle and that they would have the approval of President Wilson.

Jones, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, yesterday, and the marriage ceremony was about to begin. As a matter of routine the minister glanced at the wedding license, which he had just received from the county clerk, and then he turned to the bride and groom and read the vows. Thereupon to the consternation of the assembled company he refused to marry the pair. Tears of the bride and arguments of the groom were unavailable and the couple with their wedding party and friends, a mournful company, where it had been previously a gay one, took their departure. Finally a more complacent minister was found and the ceremony was performed.

NEED COMMON SENSE TO STOP FIRE WASTE

Insurance Commissioner Herman
Ekern Talks on Means of Solving
Fire Problem at Chicago Meeting.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Chicago, Oct. 9.—More common sense in the handling of the fire problem so as to prevent the enormous waste was advocated by Insurance Commissioner Ekern in an address at the La Salle Hotel this afternoon before the committee of the fire rate making board. He advocated greater activity on the part of fire marshals.

"If the tax payers will pay the same attention to their public duties as they do to their private affairs and stop the paying of political debts with soft jobs, there need be no increase in expense of operating the fire department. What is needed is to apply to this community problem of fire waste a little common sense, and some of the same practical business care that is used in any successful industrial or commercial enterprise. It should be possible to reduce to one half our annual fire losses through the increased care, brought about by inspections," said Mr. Ekern.

New Booth Theatre
Opens in New York
Arnold Bennett's "The Great Adventure" to Be Initial Attraction—
Of Modest Size.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, Oct. 9.—The most recent theater to be completed in New York is the Booth Theater in Forty-fifth street, which will open for the first time tomorrow evening. Arnold Bennett's "The Great Adventure" has been selected for the opening attraction.

The new Booth Theater, which was built for Winthrop Ames to house plays that he wishes to produce and which requires an ample stage and auditorium, is relatively small, with only one balcony and a parquet that is compact rather than expansive. Within it will be decorated simply and here and there will be placed various relics and memorabilia of the old Booth Theater, built and managed by Edwin Booth himself, that Mr. Ames inherited from his father.

The inference indicated is that the father's interest in the old Booth Theater prompted the son to choose the name for his own new playhouse. For the most part, Mr. Ames will use it for plays of his producing and he has pledged it so that the most interesting experiments are possible in it.

FOURTEEN THOUSAND INHERITANCE TAXES

Receipts of Rock County For Last Three Quarters, From That Source Reach Large Figure.

Receipts from inheritance taxes in Rock county in the first three quarters of the present year ending September 30, reach the sum of $14,556.61, according to County Treasurer F. E. Livermore. Those in the first quarter were highest, being $6,847. In the second quarter the total income tax collected was $5,215.36, and in the third quarter, $2,493.25. The receipts for the latter period in Rock county were only $1,473.19.

Under the existing inheritance tax law the county is permitted to retain only 7 1/2 per cent of the amount collected but county officers generally favor an amendment to the statute which will permit an equal division of the tax between state and county.

The annual amount of inheritance tax collected during the last three quarters is due to the settlement of a number of large estates. In the first quarter there was collected from the James Harris estate, $3,408.77; from the Simon Strauss estate, $2,493.16; second quarter—John Fitzgerald, $2,923.46; Harry W. Brown, $571.38; third quarter—Abbie J. Strasser, Beloit, $301.93; Emma W. Beloit, $594.54; Alice P. Wilder, Evansville, $234.20. In the fourth quarter, just begun, the sum of $867.52 has been collected from the estate of Sarah H. Rogers. Twenty estates paying income tax were settled in the third quarter.

Widows and children of the deceased pay one per cent, cousins three per cent, and heirs not relatives five per cent on inheritances when the value of the estate is above the minimum taxable amount.

INCENDIARY STARTED CARRIAGE SHED FIRE

Chief Klein to Make Report to Fire Marshal to That Effect—On Judge Sale Property.

That an incendiary started the fire which early this morning destroyed a carriage shed adjoining a barn on the Judge Sale property, corner of East and South Second streets, is the opinion of Chief of the Fire Department H. C. Klein, and he will make a report to that effect to the state fire marshal. The fire had all the earmarks of previous incendiary fires, said Chief Klein. Damage to the barn caused by scorching of the flames and including the loss of the shed is estimated at $200. There was nothing of an inflammable nature in the building.

The blaze was discovered shortly before three o'clock and an alarm sent in from box 34, which was but a few yards distant. It had obtained good headway and the firemen made haste to play a stream of water upon it. A second line of hose was laid but its use not required. More than half an hour's work was required to extinguish the blaze.

Heart to Heart Talks

By CHARLES N. LURIE

SHE PREFERRED JAIL.

A neatly dressed woman of forty, who refused to reveal her identity, was held in the police court for special sessions on a charge of shoplifting. She told the magistrate that she had stolen in order that she might be sent to jail to escape the "drudgery of married life." She declared that her husband never had a kind word for her. "It is drudge, drudge, drudge," she sighed wearily, "from the moment I get up early in the morning to prepare breakfast until I lay my weary head on the pillow late at night. I'd like to go to jail for a rest for a long time." The woman appeared dejected when taken to jail.—New York Newspaper.

Prefers jail to be own home! Pity the poor woman!

Her case is exceptional, of course. Not many women prefer the horrors of jail to the comforts, however scanty, at home.

But if all the housewives who feel the need of relief from the drudgery of housework were to seek refuge in jail the places of imprisonment would soon be overcrowded. There are millions and millions of housewives in America who do all their own housework, and it is safe to say that every one of them at some time or other has sighed for rest.

The burden presses too hard. The back is bowed too low. The face is wrinkled too early and too deeply. The hair grays too soon.

Wearily housewife, take courage. The day is dawning.

Already the housewife of city or town is relieved of much of her drudgery by the blessed hand of inventive genius. And on the farm, where the load is heaviest, farmers are beginning to awaken to the fact that their wives need assistance and rest. They are buying more labor saving machinery for themselves and their hands, which is good, and they are buying more labor saving devices for their households, which is better.

More and more farmers are investing their money in running water systems for their homes and in dish washing and clothes washing contrivances.

The silo stands on the farm as a monument to the farmer's forethought in the matter of cattle raising. Beside it stands the windmill that tells of water brought to the home to replace that carried laboriously in buckets.

The "old onion bucket" sounds well in poetry, but the creak of the windlass is echoed too often in the creak of the back as the farmer's wife lifts the needed water from the depths.

You are not doing your full duty toward your wives if you let them wear out in preventable toil. Take warning from the woman who preferred jail to a continued life of drudgery.

PIG PEN IS NO PLACE FOR CREAM SEPARATOR

Farmer Who Kept One There Fined $100 and Costs for Having Cream From It In His Possession.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Oct. 9.—State Dairy and Food Commissioner J. Emery says that running a cream separator in a pig pen doesn't go in this state, as evidence of which fact he announced the conviction of Anton Martin of Alton, Washburn county, who was fined $100 and costs for having cream in possession with intent to sell. The cream was separated from the milk with a separator kept in a pig pen. The defendant barely escaped a jail sentence by Justice of the Peace Tim Foley. The case was brought by E. N. Aderhold, assistant dairy and food commissioner.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh of the Eustachian tube, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

MORRIS MILLER

Prize fighters who make their weekly wage by trouncing each other brutally on the nose and other parts are said as a rule to regard football as a rough and dangerous pastime. Few of them could ever be coaxed onto a gridiron. They would much prefer to take a chance on having their ears bitten off in the squared circle than on the football field. And yet Alva Miller, the Lorain (Ohio) lightweight, is a bear-cat on the football lot. Or at least he used to be. For several seasons ago Miller was a star quarter on the Lorain high school team and piloted the team to many a victory. His most brilliant work being done in the game against Shaw in 1910, when Lorain won 3-0.

In just a few days now Mr. Franklin Baker will step into the limelight and bow to an admiring public. The world series that has undergone much discussion the last few weeks is after all reaching much more than a pretty setting for the swatting feats of the Home-Run Kid from Philadelphia. Baker is expected by old and young alike to come forth with the thrills of the series and to provide the real big noise of the event. Baker is a natural hitter. He can connect with anything and everything, wide or close, high or low, and he looks alike to Franklin. No pitcher has ever successfully done Baker's "weak spot." He may fan on a certain sort of ball in one inning and the pitcher thinks he has found the soft place, but the next time up Baker will put the same shoe over the fence. All the New York pitching talent have a great deal of respect for Baker at the bat.

CARDINALS TO HAVE HARD BATTLE SUNDAY

Weather Permitting Footville Will Try and Make Good Promises of Trimming Janesville Cardinals.

Footville will have ample chance to make good their promises of whaling the Janesville Cardinals, Sunday afternoon at the Driving park but while they are doing it, it is certain they will have a merry fight on their hands. Since the game was called off last Sunday, Footville has been peevish over a lost chance to wipe out their defeat by the local men and if the weather man behaves in a reasonable manner, the Footville nine will have an entire afternoon to spill the cards in the last ball game of the year.

Manager Enright will be unable to head his nine and George Hall has scheduled the game and is anxious to put a nine on the diamond that will take the naughty Footville's measure. "Cuddy" Butters will be on the mound for the locals with Hall behind the plate. The battery department looks well taken care of. In the infield, Lenahan, the sensational first sacker, who handled the place in such good style in the Madison game, will guard his corner, while Cornell, will hold down the keystone cushion. The bulk of the infield looks good to do its share in handling the visitors. Hall, at short, and Highland or Levis, of Madison, are to form the other half of the infield. Hall's calibre is a fast man and heavy with the war club. Palmer, Ned, Berger and Sullivan are billed to be the fly chasers. Those ten men will form the best team that the Cardinals have put out on the diamond this season and Footville will have to hustle to make good their threats.

Kavanaugh promises to be the hope of the visiting White Sox and his followers claim that he is able to tame the Cards. He is a leaguer playing with Hockford, when not performing same this year, save that Collins beat out Larry Lajoie by a few points. Collins, in the fourth, and Lajoie fifth. The averages shown for this season are the latest to date and undoubtedly the season will end as they are. It is interesting that in the National league things are quite the reverse way. Not one of the leading swatters in 1912 was able to reach the top this season. In 1912 the first five hitters of the National league were: Zimmerman, Meyers, Sweeney, and Doyle. This year the following five are leading at present and will probably end in this order: Darnell, Cravath, Becker, and Tinker. In both leagues the hitting has been very mild this year compared to last, the National league falling off particularly. Of the five that lead the National league in 1912 only two, Zimmerman and Meyers, were able to bat over .300. The big chief managed to hit .307 and "Zim" only .304. Evers slipped along with .283 and Sweeney and Doyle were way out of it.

The student body at Purdue university has decided that if any sort of a spy is found watching the squad's signal practice he is to be driven from the lot in a brutal manner. Coach Smith at Purdue has announced that there will be no secret signal practice, as he considers that the students should be allowed to see what the team is doing. But he urges that every effort be made to prevent spies from other schools amassing along the Purdue sidelines with an eye toward getting a line on the signals and trick formations with which Purdue hopes to win many a victory this fall. The students have promised the most careful vigilance and have declared that they may be depended upon to keep away all of the enemy. Inasmuch as Purdue is not so large but that a stranger would be readily recognized in their midst, it appears that it would be unfeeling to a delegate from another school to attempt to gather data on the Purdue signals. College boys love nothing so much as rough-housing.

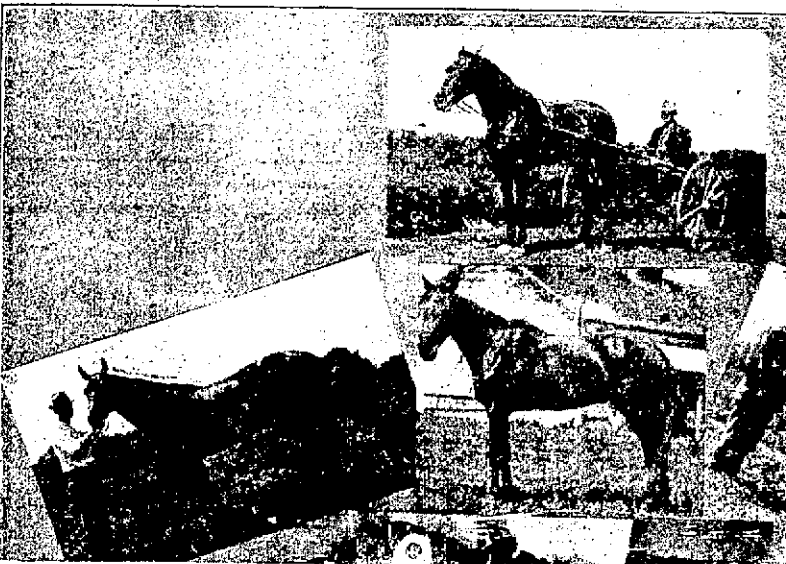

WELL KNOWN HORSES TO RACE ON FRIDAY

CRACK LOCAL SPEEDSTERS, NOT GRAND CIRCUIT CONTENDERS, ENTERED IN MATINEE.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

With Peter Emmett, Mable Riser and Six Cylinder Penn on the Card You Can't Fail to Be Present.

As usual a number of inquiries are being made every day by eager persons who are contemplating attendance at the race matinee tomorrow afternoon. Some want to know if Peter Vola, 2:04 1/2, world's champion two year old trotter, will be here to start against Alice McGregor, and others want to know if any of the White Sox or Cub players will be here to watch the races.

THREE FAST LOCAL HORSES THAT WILL RACE TOMORROW

Now for the benefit of the anxious home-coming on Friday afternoon and just local talent will take part in the program. Each race will be worth the price of admission, for the horses will be familiar and each driver will appear with that same confident look and you can almost read his thoughts as he will be saying to himself: "Come on and get me; here I am!"

The gentlemen coming from Evansville are certainly doing themselves proud for you can see how expensive it will be to bring their horses here for the benefit of Janesville horse-lovers.

In the "class two" race there will be a change in the entries as Dickie G. will not start as advertised, but

MAY PITCH THREE GAMES IN SERIES

Chief Bender.

Chief Bender, the Athletics' big Indian twirler, may pitch three games in the world's series—the first, fourth and sixth. He will doubtless be Connie Mack's mainstay in the box. In the world's series two years ago Bender pitched in three games. Though he lost the first game that year he won the fourth in the series from the Giants 4 to 2, and came right back after a day's rest and won the sixth game, 13 to 2.

once we are going to have a nice lit instead Abner Mitchell will start his new pacer, Miss Dora Patchen.

Score cards will be presented to each spectator, giving them a chance to keep close tab of the races. Horses will be called at one o'clock and started at one-thirty.

Stores Will Close.

A committee of the Park Association directors who visited the retail business houses today, were rather encouraging in a most encouraging manner. Some thirty or forty stores promised to close for the afternoon, allowing their employees an opportunity to attend the closing races of the season. The directors pointed out that the low admission price, twenty-five cents, made the entertainment within the reach of everyone.

Another committee of the directors, composed of John Sheridan and Harry Nowlan, left at noon for a campaign of the northern part of the county. Advertising matter was distributed at Milton, Milton Junction, Edgerton and Evansville.

It is safe to predict that there will be large crowds from out of the city here for the event, the weather being favorable.

TIMELY HITS GIVE FIRST GAME TO SOX

Chicago, October 9.—Uncovering eleven tremendous wallops, the majority of which appeared in times of need, the White Sox yesterday offset a terrific Cub assault that drove the mighty Russell to shelter and defeated the West Siders, with Cheney up, 6 to 4.

In the opening clash of the series for the city championship, it was a battle after the heart of every one of the 16,936 fans who gathered at Cub park, and there was considerable doing from the time Cheney unleashed the first pitch until Larry Chappell dived into the left field throng and dragged down a vicious cutoff Vic Salier's bat that terminated the combat.

Hitting when the hitting was good was responsible for the Sox victory. Only three of the Sox hits were wasted, while the Cubs tossed away no less than seven perfectly good smashes.

Cheney was derricked in the last of the eighth, after yielding eleven knocks, with nineteen sacks, to let Evers insert a pinch hitter, and Jimmy Lavelle, finished up, his splitter so blending with the muggy weather as to mystify the Sox completely. Jim Scott, who wound up for Russell, also was in great fettle, and would have escaped cleanly had not Heinie Zimmerman, while Leach was made to roll to Berger and retire the side.

The score:

Sox 2 0 0 1 0 2 1 0 6—11 2
Cubs 0 0 0 1 0 2 0 1 0—4 12 2

BOB ROY FINISHES MOST SUCCESSFUL RACE SEASON

Rob Roy, the Haley and Jordan pacer of Madison, Wisconsin, who started the season's racing at the opening of the Wisconsin Grand Circuit held at Janesville in August, finished a most successful season for his owners, at Beaver Dam, Friday by winning four straight heats in the free-for-all, over a field of classy pacers.

Rob Roy, has started seventeen times this season, winning fourteen heats, amounting to $3,575 and broke three track records. This is probably the largest winning of any pacer by the state of Wisconsin or trotter in the United States as to the number of races won. The horse was driven throughout the season by Dan Allen, considered one of the best drivers in the country. Rob Roy will spend the winter at Minneapolis, Minnesota, where he will train for next year's racing.

EVENING PRACTICE FOR LOCAL ELEVEN

Gymnasium at High School Scene of Snappy Signal Drill Last Night—Show Steady Improvement.

Curtis took his men for a couple of hours last evening, between the hours of seven and nine, in the high school gym, and they engaged in a stiff signal drill. All of the men who will make the trip to Prosper, Saturday were on hand, together with a good share of the second squad. The practice was held behind closed doors as Curtis has pounded some real tricks into the local eleven and wants them kept secret.

A scrimmage will be held tonight at the close of school after which the team will close hard work for the week. Friday a signal drill will be the program.

CAMPOR IS REMEDY FOR AILING CANINES

Local Sportsman Gives it to Favorite Hound in Place of Castor Oil Owing to Druggist's Mistake.

A man's fondness for his pet dog was revealed several days ago and on account of it a Janesville druggist narrowly escaped bodily injury, including a dusky eye, bloody nose and an increased face. It seems that one of Janesville's most ardent houndsmen had his favorite hound "Moak" ready for the rabbit season when the dog showed signs of a severe ailment.

After carefully consulting several of his friends who were well versed in dog diseases, it was decided by the jury that a liberal dose of castor oil would prepare him for chasing the bunnies. So the huntsman called up a druggist in the city and ordered a bottle of castor oil. Due to the man's

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING.

The American Bankers' Association is sending out to the press of the country a series of articles entitled, "Talks on Thrift." They are intended to encourage the habit of saving, and are well worth a thoughtful reading. A late issue thus shows up the fallacy of gambling and wild speculation.

"One of the strongest things that Secretary of State William J. Bryan has said in his recent lectures has to do with the subject of gambling. Mr. Bryan says:

"It is not strange that many are charmed by the siren song of the stock ticker, but it means ruin, and to the extent that a man yields to the temptation his morals are weakened. There is but one sure measure of rewards, namely one that compensates each in proportion as he serves society. The securing of something for nothing by a lucky turn of a card or a sudden change in the market, paralyzes one's purpose, and, in time, renders him unfit for patient and persistent effort. I might emphasize the fact that gambling in stocks and farm products often leads to embezzlement, larceny and suicide, for these are the fruits of speculation when it becomes a disease. But I prefer to put my argument against gambling upon the broader ground that it is, in all cases, a demoralizing influence, whether the gambler wins or loses. Speculation makes but few rich and many poor."

"If persons who are so fond of getting something for nothing would only stop and consider the matter carefully they would realize that they can enjoy the same sensation by saving money and letting it earn compound interest, because, in a way, that is getting something for nothing. The money you have worked for works for you, and when you have enough of it at work you can stop working yourself if you want to do so."

The surest "get thing" is a savings bank account. It is better to have that to fall back upon than to take chances on something that probably will take away all your resources. There is no thrift in chance. "Don't gamble, save."

This is the best advice that was ever offered to young men, for the gambling habit is by far and away the worst habit ever formed. The man who gambles will lie and cheat, and steal, if occasion demands, and he seldom reforms. Drinking is bad enough, but it is a virtue compared to gambling.

We are all creatures of habit and we sometimes overlook the fact that it is just as easy to cultivate a good habit as a bad one. A trip to the savings bank on Saturday night is just as easy as a trip to the saloon, and when the savings habit is once established, the first thousand dollars soon looms up as an incentive, and the boy finds himself a capitalist rather than a loafer, with prospects ahead. The necessity for saving does not appeal to us until we are in a period in life where earning capacity is reduced, and where opportunities pass us by because of age or infirmity.

We all travel the same road and pass through the same experiences so far as changing conditions, incident to the flight of time, are concerned, but we are slow to learn by observation, and so many of us approach the era of dependency with but little or no preparation, and without much warning become derelicts.

There's nothing better than a bank account to prevent this kind of wreckage. It commands respect and demands recognition when life is in ebb tide, and just how much that means, no man realizes until he is brought with a sharp turn against the experience. It pays to cultivate the saving habit.

PRISON REFORM.

Thomas Matt Osborne, chairman of the state commission on prisons, in New York, has been studying the prison system at Auburn, at close range. He entered the prison as a voluntary convict, some ten days ago and submitted to prison discipline. His experience was a revelation, in many ways and should result in much needed reforms.

He pronounces the prison system at Auburn "absolutely a form of slavery," and says that all the great truths enunciated by Lincoln against negro slavery apply to prison slavery. The prisoner loses his individuality and becomes an automaton.

He is so much of a machine that when he again becomes a free man he is destitute of independence, because manhood has been sacrificed, and the chances are that he will join the criminal class and become a confirmed law-breaker.

The state of New York is behind many of the western states in the prison reform movement, where the prison garb has been abolished to large extent, and where personal honor is recognized and encouraged. The fact is considered that a large majority of the inmates are victims of drink and passion, and not hardened criminals, and every effort is made to reform them and restore them to self-respecting manhood.

Judge Lindsey of Denver has gained a national reputation as a humane judge in dealing with youthful criminals in his juvenile court. Many of his methods have been adopted by prison authorities, and humane treatment is now the rule, and not the exception.

There are degrees of crime and all kinds of criminals, but the first offender represents by far the largest class. While punishment is just, it should be tempered with mercy. This fact is freely emphasized by Mr. Osborne in reporting his experience.

LEND A HAND.

The Driving Park Association is entitled to more loyal support, on the part of Janesville people, than it has received. But for this association the fair ground would have gone back to farming land. It is worth something preserved, for the time may come when they will again be needed for fair purposes.

The matinee, to be held at the park tomorrow afternoon, is for the double purpose of providing a good entertainment, and wiping out a small deficit, created at the last race meet.

The time and money spent will be a good investment. The best way to boost a city is to encourage its home enterprises, and the Driving Park Association is strictly a home product. Take in the matinee tomorrow afternoon. Your moral support will encourage the management, and the small admission fee will help the treasurer to meet obligations.

It is stated that as a result of the passing of the new tariff, the American Beet Sugar Co. has announced a reduction of 75 cents a ton in the price to be paid farmers for beets delivered for the 1914 season. During the past two years the price for beets analyzing 15 per cent sugar content, has been $5.25 with 25 cents a ton in addition for hauling.

On this basis, next season's figure will be $4.50 without any hauling allowance. The additional 30 cents a ton for each 1 per cent increase in sugar content will remain, and also the decrease of 25 cents a ton for each 1 per cent below the 15 per cent sugar content standard. Figuring on beets yielding twenty tons to the acre, the reduction means a loss to the growers of about $15 an acre. Refined beet sugar is selling for about 4.35 cents a pound as compared with a recent high of 4.60 cents, while cane refined is now quoted at 4.45 cents, as against 4.70 cents a week or so ago.

The fall in refined prices is attributed to general trade and crop conditions as well as to the tariff.

The Janesville Recorder, which has been running as a morning daily in Janesville for a number of years, has had its obituary written. It struggled along for many years in a vain effort to make money, but it did not succeed and was forced to give up the ghost when those who were furnishing funds didn't care to dig up any more. This leaves the field entirely to the Gazette, a strong publication and a paper which has given and will continue to give the people of Janesville and surrounding territory a first-class daily paper.—Antigo Journal.

Statistics show that fifty-four per cent of the people killed by the railroads, during the past twenty-two years, were trespassers, for which the companies were in no way responsible, while twenty-five per cent of the fatal accidents to employees, covering the same period, were due to carelessness. Steel cars, and all other safety appliances would not reduce this class of accidents.

The state of Michigan is taking a lively interest in industrial education, inspired by the good work already accomplished in Wisconsin. The city of Grand Rapids will entertain the convention of the National Society for the promotion of Industrial Education, and an interesting program is announced. The convention will be held during the week commencing October 19.

EXPOSURE

The Diary of the Bonehead.

I will never forget the moment when the chauffeur departed and left me alone with the diabolical thing I was scared stiff. I didn't know the transmission from the crank and if anybody had asked me to point out the differential I would probably have lead him to the oil pump. He left me alone with the thing downtown and I had to drive home, a distance of two miles. All that he had told me was mixed up in my mind, and I thoroughly jumbled as a scrambled egg.

I then remembered that I had built a cute little plastered garage back of my house at a cost of $400 and had I had to get to it. I made up my mind and I ever did get to it the car would stay there, pulled every crank in sight, turned every switch I could find and pressed every button.

The thing started with a jerk that nearly broke my back and it immediately hit up a pace of twenty-five miles an hour. I couldn't stop it, but, thank goodness, having once started a steam launch, I could keep it in the road and off the laws.

I was pinched on the way home, but couldn't stop. I yelled at the motor cop that I would be in court at 9 o'clock the next morning as per instructions and went on my way. How I ever hit the driveway into my garage I do not know, but I did and I entered the garage in fine style.

I got into it, but I went right through it, carrying the back wall with me. My engine went dead ripping down three fences and all of the clothes line in sight.

My first drive cost me $235, but I have now so much more sense, that it rarely costs me more than $100 for a little spin.

I bought my car last year, but it is already nine years behind the times. I am confident that I paid nearly all of the Standard Oil Company's dividends last year.

Outside of these few drawbacks I enjoy my automobile immensely.

SYNOPSIS "TESS OF THE D'URBERVILLE"

PARSON TRINGHAM traces the genealogical history of John Durbeyfield, and discovers that he is the lineal descendant of the ancient and knightly family of the D'Urbervilles. Lazy and slothful always, John Durbeyfield, on the strength of his heritage, now abandons himself to a life of ease and indolence. Tess, his eldest daughter, is a beautiful girl who has inherited all the weaknesses and passions of her ancestors. One day, at a Maypole dance, Tess is attracted to Angel Clare, a stranger to the countryside, who, out of childhood, dances with every girl but Tess. To advance the financial prospects of her family, Mrs. Durbeyfield conceives the idea of sending Tess to claim relationship with the rich and powerful D'Urbervilles of the adjacent county. Tess encounters Alec D'Urberville, who is enamored of her immediately and engages her for work on his farm. The inevitable happens. Alec deceives Tess, and in shame and humiliation she returns home, where her child is born. The child eventually dies, and Tess makes a determined struggle to reclaim her ruined life. She obtains employment at a dairy farm, where, happens to be Angel Clare. The two fall in love, and once more Tess's future begins to promise happiness. Torn by conflicting emotions, she decides to write Angel of her former false step, and places the note under his door. He never finds her confession, but, convinced that he has read it and forgiven her sin, after his continued solicitations, she consents to marry him.

After marriage Angel tells Tess of a former fall from grace, and Tess promptly forgives him. He takes her in his arms, and in the dim freight, thinking he already knows the bitter fact, she proceeds to relate her indiscretion with Alec D'Urberville. Angel is shocked by the revelation, and leaves Tess until he can bring himself to forgive her.

Destitute and despairing, Tess is again found by D'Urberville. He offers her protection and support, and is encouraged by Angel's desertion, she again pays the price for existence. In the meantime Angel's old love for Tess reasserts itself, and he determines to return. He finds her in luxury and splendor in D'Urberville's home. Tess is torn with despair as she sees her last chance for happiness slip away, and when D'Urberville taunts her concerning Angel she grasps a knife and in insane anger kills him. She overtakes Angel, and together they seek shelter in the ruins of an old Druid temple. Her crime is detected, she is followed and traced, and confronted by her pursuers. Hopelessly she surrenders herself to the law.

In a grim, gray prison, safe at last from the world that had tempted and cursed her, Tess spends the remaining years of her life her broken heart and shattered hopes, a martyr to man's wrong.

This superb production, shown at the Lyric tomorrow and Saturday, at 3, 7:30 and 9, is the first of a series presented by Mr. Daniel Frohman. They will appear at intervals of two weeks. Prices: matinee, 10c, evening, 10c and 20c.

NEW POLICE SIGNAL SYSTEM SOON READY

Fire Chief Klein Hopes to Have it in Working Order Early Next Week—Four Circuits Installed.

Fire Chief Klein, who with his assistants have been at work for some time installing a new police signal system, hopes to have it ready for operation early next week. Little remains to be done other than the making and placing of the switchboard and the interior wiring which will be placed in conduits.

Terminals and switches for five different circuits will be provided in the switchboard, but for the present only four circuits are to be used. Each lamp has its own circuit with the exception that the lamps at the corner of Main and Milwaukee and Main and Oak streets will be on one circuit. Other lamps will be placed at the intersections of Milwaukee and Academy, Jackson and River streets. The lamps will be sixty watt tungsten with red globes and powerful enough to bring prompt responses from the policemen summoned. A four candle power pilot light will be placed over each switch. The lights will be connected with the corresponding circuits, showing on the signal lights a waste of electricity current through thoughtlessly leaving the lights burning.

All five alarm wires have been removed from Milwaukee street between Main and Jackson streets and placed on poles in the alley to the north of Milwaukee street.

LABOR COMMITMENTS CHECK "REPEATERS"

Out of Seventy Who Have Served Sentences Not One Has Been Arrested for Second Time.

Labor commitments are proving an effective means or curbing the practice of "repeating" among men sentenced for conviction of intoxication. Of the seventy odd men who have been sentenced to labor since it was put into effect by Rock county a few of whom were convicted of minor offenses other than drunkenness, and served out their time, not one has been arrested since. Four who became intoxicated after being put to work have been arrested and being placed on a diet of bread and water in solitary confinement for ten days; two escaped and have not been captured, and a third, Waldo Holmes, who escaped and was captured, was given the maximum penalty of one year in the state's prison in Waupun. The punishment meted out in his case is expected to discourage future attempts of that kind among labor commitment prisoners.

THREE ARE HURT IN AUTOMOBILE SMASHUP

Father Foebel, Mrs. George Perkins And Miss Bourgmeier Are Injured As Machine Is Hit By Street Car.

Returning to this city yesterday afternoon about four-thirty after making several calls south of Janesville, Father Foebel, Mrs. George Perkins, and Miss Bourgmeier, were injured when their automobile collided with the work car of the Janesville Traction Company, at the foot of the Belmont avenue hill. The work car was on its way back to the car barns, and was descending the hill at the foot of Main street near Boul's brewery, when the accident occurred.

Father Foebel was about to pass a rig at the north end of the Belmont avenue bridge and, according to law, took the left side, as the vehicle was going in the same direction as his car. After passing the rig, he found it impossible to get out of rut between the rails, into which he had driven upon passing the rig. He saw the work car coming down the hill and he made several desperate attempts to get out of the hole, but found it to be impossible. He signalled to the motorman to stop, but the latter made an attempt to strike speed, according to eye witnesses. The two women who were in the machine jumped.

Mrs. Perkins injured her side, while Miss Bourgmeier received a badly fractured shoulder and arm.

The work car, which was driven by Father Foebel to escape, and he was forced to stay in the car. The work car crashed into his machine and threw it across the road into the ditch on the east side of the road.

The machine was badly demolished, and Father Foebel was thrown and injured many bad bruises. He is confined in bed today and is suffering considerable pain, his right leg and foot being skinned, and his back strained.

Father Foebel estimated that the work car was traveling at a good rate of speed, increasing all the time that they were coming down the hill. One of the garage men passing by brought the injured party to town and to their homes. The car was a total wreck.

ST. DOG SHOWS SORROW AT DEATH OF MISTRESS

Regarding each person who entered the home with a sad and worried perplexity, and searching from room to room, Buster, the little tan and black dog that had been Mrs. Knoff's almost constant companion for the past three years, seems unable to account for the absence of his mistress. He seems to realize, however, that something is wrong and appeals to each new visitor at the door for some sort of explanation.

Buster is a dog of unusual wisdom, years and this is her first visit to her much comfort to Mrs. Knoff.

THROUGH SACRIFICE OF A LIFELONG FRIEND, PRESENT CHIEF OF ARMY ENGINEERS TO RETIRE WITH GRADE OF BRIGADIER GENERAL

Gen. William T. Russell (left) and Gen. William H. Bixby.

William T. Russell, chief of engineers of the United States army, will retire on October 11 with the rank of brigadier general. That he will retire with this grade rather than that of colonel is due to the sacrifice of his lifelong friend, Gen. William H. Bixby. Bixby held the station and would not have been retired on account of age until December. Russell was next in line for the place, but he will have to retire on account of age in October. So General Bixby voluntarily surrendered his office in order that his friend Russell might be raised to the highest grade to which it is possible for him to go.

NAMED MINISTER TO LIBERIA BY WILSON

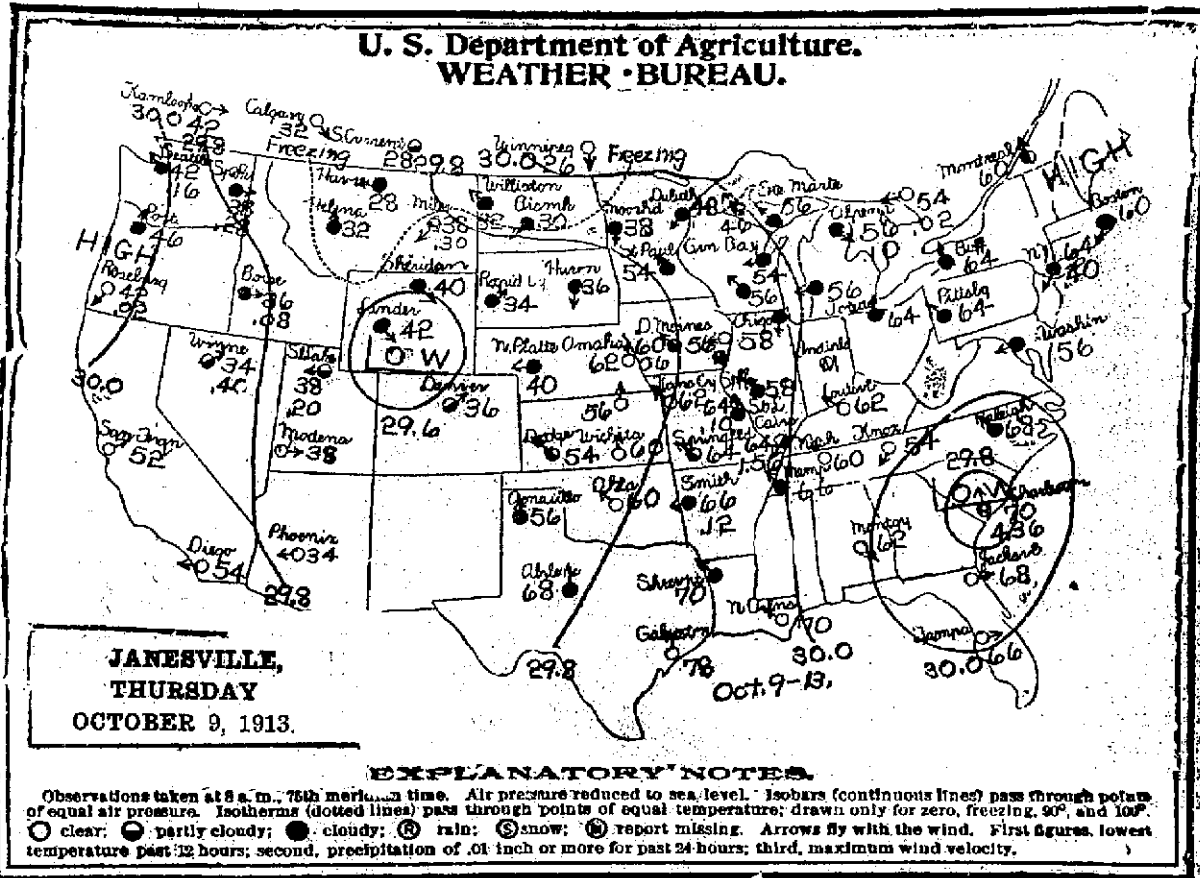

Dr. G. W. Buckner.

Dr. G. W. Buckner, colored, of Evansville, Ind., was recently appointed minister to Liberia by President Wilson.

J. Hampton Moore.

Representative J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania, the father of eight children, has introduced in congress a resolution designating the first Sunday in June as father's day, with the rose as its emblem.

The storm that appeared off Charleston night before last has moved slowly northward and is now mostly on land. It has been attended by continued rain at Charleston, 4.30 inches, having fallen in the past 24 hours. It will doubtless cause flood damage, if no injury from winds has resulted from it. A great area of low barometer is forming in the west, the lowest pressures being over Wyoming today. Scattered winds and cloudiness prevail as a consequence on the plains and in the Mississippi valley. There have been scattered rains in the Mississippi valley, the heaviest fall being 1.50 inches at Cairo. Rain continues falling in the Columbia basin, and snow is reported in the northern Rockies.

The Church.

According to the London Telegraph, the Bishop of London, speaking at the Mansion House, said that many people nowadays had a false idea of the church. "The popular idea was that you had only to put three pence in the slot, or rather in the offertory, and you got a handsome vicar, two good-looking curates and a peal of bells."

Putting It Clearly.

"Rastus, what's a alibi?" "Dat's provin' dat yoh was at a prayemeet in whar yoh wasn't, in order to show dat yoh wasn't at de crap-game whar yoh was."—Life.

How She Knew

"I do think," exclaimed Mrs. Torker indignantly, "that Mrs. Gadabout is the most aggravatingly inquisitive woman, if I must say so, I ever knew. Why, I never pass her on the street but what she invariably turns her head and stares back at me to see what I've got on and how it sits from behind."

"How—? that is, I was wondering, my dear, how you found out that the mean thing looked back. Some one tell you?" inquired Mr. Torker, innocently.

And Mrs. Torker straightway turned the stream of her indignation, seething hot, from Mrs. Gadabout to her "insinuating wretch of a husband," as she fondly termed him, and after the first pyrotechnic outburst refused to speak to the fortunate man for the rest of the evening.

QUITE SO.

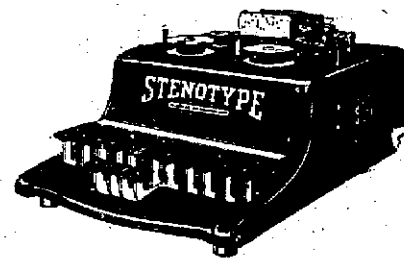

The Lady—I haven't rouch to offer you. The Hobo—No apologies. Any kind of eating is a genuine luxury these days.

A New Era--The Age of the Stenotype

A Solution of the Stenographic Problem For the Business Man and Stenographer

What the Stenotype Is

THE STENOTYPE IS THE FASTEST WRITING MACHINE KNOWN IN THE WORLD TODAY. The Stenotype weighs but eight pounds. It is the result of six years of research, study and experiment by men of the highest standing and broadest experience in the shorthand and technical world. It has been unqualifiedly endorsed and is used by the greatest business and financial institutions wherever a demonstration has been given. The Stenotype is the final and completing step in progress of perfecting methods of dictation; and has the same unquestionable and well recognized advantages over shorthand that the typewriter has over longhand.

The fastest shorthand writing machine in the world.

What the Stenotype Does

The Stenotype enables the ordinary stenographer to write from 125 to 200 words per minute. It writes in plain type face. It combines absolute machine accuracy and plain type legibility with practically unlimited speed. The Stenotype, with two typewriter operators, will do in three hours what three good stenographers can do in two days. It saves two-thirds of the business man's time and adds a third to the stenographer's salary. It gives the business man absolute freedom to dictate any subject matter at any speed and with the positive and absolute assurance that the transcript will be correct, and unlike all other machines or methods of dictation, the installation of the Stenotype does not cost the business man a single cent.

The Stenotype has enabled the business office to handle a larger volume of daily correspondence; it has increased the efficiency of the stenographer and has elevated stenography to a profession.

Thousands of competent Stenotypists are now holding excellent positions and still the demands of progressive business houses for Stenotypists far exceeds the supply.

President Wilson Reviews Largest Body of Cavalry Troops Seen in Washington Since Close of Civil War

Washington, Oct. 9.—Two thousand khaki cavalry men invaded Washington today to pass in review before President Wilson and military attaches of the foreign embassy and legations. The review was planned to illustrate the advances made in the tactics. The men recently broke camp at Fort Myers and constitute the strongest regular mounted force that has appeared before a president since the close of the Civil War.

The Theatre

PAULIST CHORISTERS OF CHICAGO.

The Paulist Choristers are the only Choral Society of boys and men in the concert arena of the United States. They are made up of seventy-five boys, sopranos and altos, and fifty adults, tenors and basses. The union of the boys' voices and the men's produces a mystical effect quite unusual and impossible with choral societies of a different personnel, and the employment of the boys and men, provided, of course, they are trained according to scientific ideals, makes a possible style of singing that is apprehensible to all audiences whether musical or not. These choristers have had the privilege of exploiting ideals and traditions that had almost been forgotten. The encumbrances heaped on this society by the critics of America and Europe prove that they have been successful in resurrecting the old choral traditions. This society was organized in June 1907, but the personnel in the boys' section is naturally always changing. Many of the tenors and basses in the present organization were trained originally as boy choristers. The Paulist choristers will appear at the Myers Theatre on Monday evening, Oct. 13, under the auspices of the local K. C. lodge.

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE—"CASCARETS"

Salts, Calomel and Pills act on Liver and Bowels like pepper acts in Nostrils—Danger!

Get a 10-cent box now.
Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.
Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

IS HIKING FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN

Miss Gladys Mason.

Miss Gladys Mason is on a long hike from New York to San Francisco. She has already passed through Chicago and hopes to reach her destination some time this year. She says the aim of her trip is to demonstrate the benefit of physical culture life, and show the people that we eat too much and take too little exercise.

Wants to Stay There.

After a man has reached the top he begins to hope that the rungs in the ladder will all give out.—Detroit Free Press.

The Kitchen Cabinet

THE joy of life seems to me to arise from a sense of being where one belongs. All the discontented people I know are trying sedulously to get somewhere else. We try to grow poetry where plumbing would thrive grandly, not knowing that plumbing is as important and honorable and necessary to this earth as poetry.

—David Grayson.

FROZEN DISHES.

If one is wise enough to purchase an easy-running freezer, and will have a heavy block set with a handle to pound the ice with, there is real pleasure in having a frozen dessert. The old gunny sacks, which may be bought for any grocer, are more lasting than four sacks, though they will answer very well for several times. Use three parts ice, to one part of salt; have the ice fine and the work will be quickly done.

Milk or Velvet Sherbet.—Take the juice of three lemons, two cups of sugar and a quart of rich milk; put into the freezer and freeze as usual. The milk will curdle, but it will be smooth as velvet when well frozen.

Chocolate Ice Cream.—Make a sirup of two cups of white sugar, a half cake of melted chocolate and a package of gelatine. Cool and stir in a gallon of cream, flavor and freeze. These proportions may be changed for a small quantity.

Banana Sherbet.—Boil a pint each of sugar and water together ten minutes. When cool, add the beaten whites of two eggs and the pulp of six bananas put through a sieve, with half a cup of lemon juice. Freeze as usual.

Tutti-Frutti Ice Cream.—Make a custard of six eggs and a quart of milk, with sugar to taste. Pour hot over a cup of finely chopped raisins, a half pound of blanched chopped almonds and a cup of strawberry preserves; flavor with almond. Cool and freeze. When nearly frozen, add three pints of whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with vanilla.

Grape Ice Cream.—A pint of cream, a cup of grape juice, a quarter of a cup of lemon juice and sugar to taste. Freeze.

Nellie Maxwell.

The Seamstress Speaks.

A little sewing woman was helping to make some costumes for a minor Browning pageant and was asked if she had ever read any of the poet. "No," she replied. "I've never read any of that sort of stuff; Browning, nor Shakespeare, either. But, then, you know," she added, "my mother has her own opinion about Shakespeare."—Manchester Guardian.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

By FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

Perhaps you know, perhaps you don't, that if you sprinkle the top of a cake with powdered sugar before icing it, the chances of the icing running off the sides will be lessened. That if you lower the temperature in the oven 15 or 20 degrees after placing a roast in it will help to retain the juices of the meat. That if it ever be necessary to dry clothes in the house, hang them as high as possible to insure rapid drying.

That new kid gloves will be much more easy to put on for the first time if placed between the folds of a damp towel an hour before required. The damp stretches the kid so that the required shape is obtained without spilling.

That stamps should not be licked. The best way is to moisten the envelope, not the stamp. If stamps stick together, do not soak them apart, but lay them on a smooth surface with a thin paper over them. This will separate them without destroying the gum.

That there is only one thing more polite than inquiring after the health of a friend whom one meets, and that is to listen while he tells you. To listen while he pours forth a weird tale of all his ills—"all the ills that flesh is heir to." If it helped him any you'll be glad to listen to his plaintive recital. It may give him a melancholy satisfaction to enumerate his woes, but from all such talks the majority of us aim and desire to fight shy. Think a minute, do you ever waste your time and the time of your probably very busy neighbor, recounting your ills? Do it?

If to yourself we stand condemned let us make the resolution that we are going to now talk of something more interesting than inconsequential little pains and aches that for the most part exist chiefly in our imagination.

NOW IS TIME TO MAKE CAKE, BEFORE EGGS SOAR IN PRICE

Before eggs are soaring to their usual price in cold weather we may like to have one final fling at the cakes in which several eggs are used. Of fact, where cakes are of the sunshine, angel and sponge variety no butter is used, so it makes a very reasonable cake after all. Cake is not necessarily diet, neither is it used for steady diet, so the making of it should be regulated by the prices of eggs and whether one's income will permit of extras.

It is so easy to lay all our troubles to the "high cost of living," but if when certain foods advanced in price a substitute were used it would save considerable. Close figuring also is a help. For instance, estimate the cost of the number of eggs as so much a dozen, a cup and a half of sugar, a cup of flour, a cup of butter. Then there would be some intelligent ideas along this line of "high complaining."

Try this fall to talk less of "high prices" and do more. Be more careful in the selection of food. Know when potatoes are advanced in price that it is time to use rice in various ways. It is just as good and better occasionally and supplies the same food value. Count the cost of the good cake which can be made at home and know when to use less or more eggs.

Sunshine Cake. Materials—Whites of eggs, seven; yolks of eggs, five; granulated sugar, one and one fourth cups; pastry flour, one cup; cream of tartar, one half teaspoonful; flavoring. Utensils—Two mixing bowls, egg beater, measuring cup, teaspoon, angel food pan.

Pretty Dress of Plaid Worsted

This dress is made of plaid worsted and white crepe de chine. The blouse of crepe de chine is fastened down the front with hank buttons and is finished at the neck and cuffs by frills of crepe de chine. A section of plaid worsted extends from either side of the front of the belt over the shoulders, forming the deep collar in back. The skirt is in two pieces, the upper one wrapping around the figure, simulating a yoke at the right side and a tunic at the left.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving $2 and Fully Guaranteed.

A full pint of cough syrup—as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of the ordinary cough more quickly, usually conquering it inside of 24 hours. Excellent, too, for spasmodic croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, asthma and bronchitis.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help relieve a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in gaitacol and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup remedy has often been imitated, but the old successful mixture has never been equalled. It is now used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING. When cleaning waxed or polished floors add a little petrolatum. To clean fly-specked chandeliers or picture frames use a cloth dipped in kerosene.

To prevent the edges of a rug cutting take a strip of webbing two inches wide and sew it tightly on the underside of the rug.

To prevent the splints in a broom from breaking, soak the broom in a strong hot salt and water before using.

THE TABLE. Panned Chicken.—With a strong knife cut down both sides of the backbone of a young chicken, spread out the flesh and remove all the internal organs attached to the backbone. Wash the meat, wipe dry and set, skin side down, on a rack in a baking pan. Lay slices of fat salt pork on the meat and cook in a hot oven; after fifteen minutes reduce the heat, cover closely and let bake until tender. The chicken should be juicy and not dry in the least. Serve with it boiled bacon and the liver. Garnish with toast-points, dipped in the liquid in the pan, and then in the fine chopped parsley.

Sweet Cream Cake.—One egg and yolk of another well beaten; add gradually one cup of sweet cream, one and two-thirds cups of flour with one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder sifted in with it, pinch of salt. Flavor to taste.

Spiced Peaches.—Seven pounds of peaches, five pounds of sugar, one pint of vinegar, one cup of water, two-thirds of a cup of stick cinnamon, one-third of a cup of whole cloves. Remove the skins from the peaches. Have ready a sirup, add the spices, then add a few of the peaches, with one or two cloves pressed into each; let cook a moment, turning the peaches to keep the dough as soft as can be handled. Roll out only a portion of the dough at a time. Cut into rounds. The recipe makes about two dozen cookies.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! IF IT IS FALLING OR FULL OF DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Ladies. Men! Here's the best 25 cents you ever spent—Don't wait! Apply a little tonight.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What will cure my father of crankiness?

PAPA'S GIRL. Sometimes loving him a whole lot is a cure, dear little "Papa's Girl." But I am sure you do that, anyway. Perhaps he has worries you know nothing about. Just make things at home as pleasant for him as you know how, so he will always be glad to see you and forget about being cranky.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) A few months ago my boy friend and myself "busted up" and we haven't spoken since. Now I am very fond of this boy and I don't want to be mad at him. How can I win him back?

(2) How can I remove freckles? LASSIE. (1) Next time you see him, you might smile pleasantly at him and ask him if he doesn't want to be friends with any more. You can tell by the way that he answers whether he wants to or not. If he does, he just nice and friendly with him and let him make any further advances.

(2) Rub a cit lemon on the skin. If this irritates too much, dilute the lemon with water. Keep up the treatment daily until the freckles are gone. If they are not bad freckles, a daily use of buttermilk will remove them.

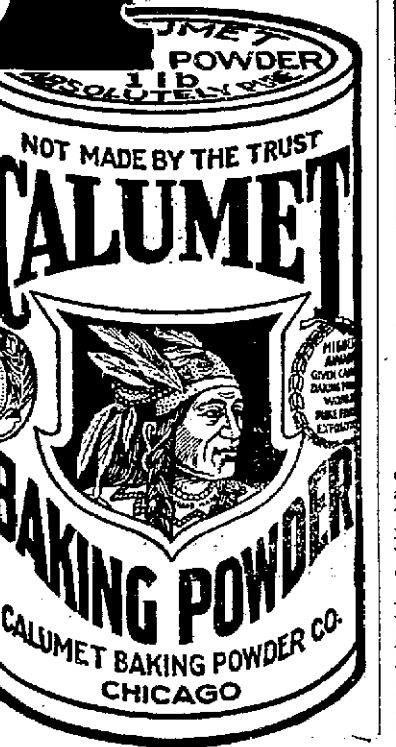

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of eighteen and have been engaged to a nice boy about four months.

A few stitches were taken and everything indicates that it will soon be all right again.

Dinner Stories

A clergyman was being shaved by a barber who has evidently become unnerved by the previous night's dissipation. Finally he cut the clergyman's chin. The latter looked up at the artist reproachfully, and said: "You see, my man, what comes of hard drinking." "Yes, sir," replied the barber, consolingly, "it makes the skin tender."

"Now, boys," said a Sunday school teacher, "I want each of you to subscribe something toward the mission to the Caribbees. I shall hand the box round, and as each of you contributes you will I hope say some appropriate text." Now, Charlie, show a good example.

A ruddy-faced urchin stepped forward, dropped his coin and observed: "It is better to give than to receive."

Then another contributed a copper, saying:

"Waste not, want not."

This was ruled somewhat out of order, but it was fairly capped by a third youngster, who evidently parted with his penny with extreme reluctance, for as he dropped it into the box he murmured:

"A fool and his money are soon parted."

The editor of the heart-throb column of a daily newspaper received the following letter from a young man:

"Please tell me why it that a girl always closes her eyes when a fellow kisses her?"

To which the editor in a fustian moment replied:

"Send us your photograph and perhaps I can tell you."

Ponderous Personages

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slwash."

SOLOMON, whose other name has not survived the wear and tear of time, was the son of David, King of Israel, and was born with a golden spoon, incriminated with jewels, in his mouth. He was a handsome young man and a great favorite with all who knew him and when David passed away and left Solomon to run the country there was general rejoicing.

This was about three thousand years ago, and the government at that time was in a very crude and unstable condition. Most of the world's kings up to that time had been mere amateurs in the art, but Solomon took hold of the job as if he had had a university course in civil government. He made wise laws and used so much common sense in settling the disputes of his people that his wisdom became a byword, and the Queen of Sheba, a chummy monarch, is pointed out in the annual commercial reports of the world, made a long journey overland on a rough riding camel in order to meet him and gain a few pointers in jurisprudence.

Solomon, rebuilt Jerusalem and built a new temple which was so magnificent that the limited vocabulary of the time broke down under the attempt to describe it. He wrote songs which are still among the best, and fortified his country so successfully that hostile kings passed it hurriedly by and agriculture flourished as never before.

Up to this point Solomon's reign was a great argument for beneficent despotism. He ran everything and did it so successfully that nobody objected, and when he had to double the appropriation for court every year owing to the high cost of wives, the people merely pointed with indignation to the high price of corn, and the general prosperity of the land and the high grade of Circassian beauties which were being imported by carload lots for the royal harem.

Matters went on pleasantly until

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—But Grace found it hardly up to Expectations—

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

By Timely Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Here is her own statement.

Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and was fat and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine. Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Cary, Maine.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Miss Patty got up. "We are talking around the question," she said. "Mr. Pierce undertook to manage the sanatorium, and to try to manage it successfully. He cannot do that without making some attempt at conciliating the people. It's—it's absurd to antagonize them."

"Exactly," he said coldly. "I was to manage it, and to try to do it successfully. I'm sorry my methods don't meet with the approval of this—executive committee. But it might as well be clear that I intend to use my own methods—or none."

Well, what could we do? Miss Patty went out with her head up and the rest of us stayed and ate humble pie, and after a while he agreed to stay if he wasn't interfered with. He said he and Doctor Barnes had a plan that he thought was a winner—that it would either make or break the place, and he thought it would make it. And by that time we were so meek that we didn't even ask what it was.

Doctor Barnes and Miss Summers were the first to come to the mineral spring that morning.

"Curious old world, isn't it?" she said between puffs. "Here we are—the three of us—snug and nice, having seven kinds of bell-fire water and not having to pay for it; three meals a day and afternoon tea, ditto, good beds and steam-heat ditto—and four days ago where were we? Pierce, you were hooking your clothes! Doc, you—"

"Washing dishes!" he said. "I never knew before how extravagant it is to have a saucer under a cup!"

"And I!" she went on. "I, Julia Summers, was starting at a ceiling in the Finleyville hotel, with a face that looked like a toy balloon."

"And now," said Doctor Barnes, "you are more beautiful than ever. I am a successful physician. And my young friend here—Pierce—Julia, Pierce has now become a young reprobate named Dicky Carter, and may the Lord have mercy on his soul!"

I tried to get out in time, but I was too late. I saw her rise, saw the glass of water at her elbow roll over and smash on the floor, and saw her clutch wildly at Mr. Pierce's shoulder.

"Not—not Dicky Carter!" she cried. "Richard—they call him Dick." Mr. Pierce said uneasily, and loosened her fingers from his coat.

Oh, well, everybody knows it now—how she called Mr. Dick everything in the calendar, and then began to cry and said nobody would ever know what she'd been through with, and the very dress she had on was a part of the trousseau she'd had made, and what with the dressmaker's bills—Suddenly she stopped crying.

"Where is he now?" she demanded. "All we are aware of," Mr. Pierce replied quietly, "is that he is not in the sanatorium."

She looked at us all closely, but she got nothing from my face. "Oh, very well," she said, shrugging her shoulders. "I'll wait until he shows up. It doesn't cost anything."

Then, with one of her easy changes, she laughed and picked up her muff to go.

"Minnie and I," she said, "will tend bar here, and in our leisure moments we will pour sulphur water on a bunch of Dicky's letters that I have to cool 'em." She walked to the door and turned around, smiling.

"Carry her insurance on 'em all the time," she finished and went out, leaving us staring at one another.

CHAPTER IX.

I went to bed early that night. What with worrying and being alternately chilled by tramping through the snow and roasted as if I was sitting on a volcano with an eruption due, I was about all in.

I guess it was about four o'clock in the morning when a hand slid over my face, and I sat up and yawned. The hand covered my mouth at that, and something long and white and very thin beside the bed said: "Sh! For heaven's sake, Minnie!"

It was Miss Cobb! I lighted a candle and set it on a chair beside the bed and took a good look at her. She was shaking all over, which wasn't strange, for I sleep with my window open, and she had a key in her hand.

"Here," she gasped, holding out the key, "here, Minnie, wake the house and get him, but, oh, Minnie, for heaven's sake, save my reputation!"

"Get who?" I demanded, for I saw it was her room key.

"I have looked a man in my room!" she declared in a terrible voice, and collapsed into the middle of the bed. "Well, I leaned over and tried to tell her she'd make a mistake. The more I looked at her, with her hair standing straight out over her head, and her cambric nightgown and a high collar and long sleeves, and the hump on her nose where her brother Willie had hit her in childhood with a baseball bat, the surer I was that somebody had made a mistake—likely the man."

I sat down on the side of the bed and put on my slippers.

"What did he look like?" I asked.

"Could you see him?"

"She uncovered one eye."

"Not—not distinctly," she said. "I think he was large, and—and rather handsome. That beast of a dog must have got in my room and was asleep under the bed, for it awakened me by snarling."

There was nothing in that to make me nervous, but it did. As I put on my kimono I was thinking pretty hard. I could not waken Mr. Pierce by knocking, so I went in and shook him. "Mr. Pierce! Mr. Pierce!"

It was two or three minutes at the least before I had him sitting on the side of the bed, with a blanket spread over his knees, and was telling him about Miss Cobb.

After he seemed pretty well wakened I went out. I waited in the sitting-room and I heard him growling as he put on his clothes. He was quiet when we got to the bedroom floors, however, and when we stopped outside Miss Cobb's door he was as sober as any one could wish him.

I gave him the key and he fitted it quietly in the lock. Arabella, just outside, must have heard, for she snarled. But the snarl turned into a yelp, as if she'd been suddenly kicked.

Mr. Pierce, with his hand on the knob, turned and looked at me in the candle-light. Then he opened the door.

Arabella gave another yelp and rushed out; she went between my feet like a shot and almost overthrew me, and when I'd got my balance again I looked into the room. Mr. Pierce was at the window, staring out, and the room was empty.

"The idiot!" Mr. Pierce said. "If it hadn't been for that snow-bank! Here, give me that candle!"

He stood there waving it in circles, but there was neither light nor sound from below. After a minute Mr. Pierce put the window down and we stared at the room. All the bureau drawers were out on the floor, and the lid of poor Miss Cobb's trunk was open and the tray upset.

If Arabella Hadn't Made a Diversion I Think I Would Have Fainted.

We brought her back to her room, and she didn't know whether to be happy that she was vindicated or mad at the state her things were in. She drew my head down to her and her eyes were fairly popping out of her head.

"I feel as though I'm going crazy, Minnie!" she whispered, "but the only things that are gone are my letters from Mr. Jones, and—my black woolen tights!"

I slept late the next morning, and when I'd had breakfast and waded to the spring-house it was nearly nine.

As I floundered out I thought I saw somebody slink around the corner of the spring-house, but when I got there nobody was in sight. I was on my knees in front of the fireplace, raking out the fire, when I heard the door close behind me, and when I turned, there stood Mr. Dick, muffled to the neck, with his hat almost over his face.

"What the deuce kept you so late this morning?" he demanded, in a sulky voice, and limping over to a table he drew a package out of his pocket and slammed it on the table.

"I was up half the night, as usual," I said, rising. "You oughtn't to be here, Mr. Dick!"

He was pulling something out of his overcoat pocket, an inch at a time. "For God's sake, Minnie," he exclaimed, "return this garment to—whomever it belongs to!"

He handed it to me, and it was Miss Cobb's black tights! I stood and stared.

"And then," he went on, reaching for the package on the table, "when you've done that, return to 'Binkie' these letters from her Jonestoe."

"Don't stand and stare," he continued irritably, when I didn't make a move, "at least get that—that internal black garment out of sight."

"So it was you!" I gasped, putting the newspaper over the tights. "Why in the name of peace did you jump out of the window, and what did you want with—these things?"

"Want with these things!" he snarled. "I suppose you can't understand that a man might wake up in the middle of the night with a mad craving for a pair of black woolen tights, and—"

"You needn't be sarcastic with me," I broke in. "You can save that for your wife. I suppose you also had a long longing for the love-letters of an insurance agent—"

And then it dawned on me, and I sat down and laughed until I cried.

"And you thought you were stealing your own letters!" I cried. "The ones she carries her insurance on! Oh, Mr. Dick, Mr. Dick!"

"How was I to know it wasn't Julia Summers' room?" he demanded angrily. "Didn't I follow the dratted dog? I gave her the beast myself. Oh, I tell you, Minnie, if I ever get away from this place—"

"You've got to get away this minute," I broke in, remembering. "They'll be coming any instant now."

He got up and looked around him helplessly.

"Where'll I go?" he asked. "I can't go back to the shelter-house."

I looked at him and he tried to grin. "Fact," he said, "hard to believe, but—fact, Minnie. She's got the door locked. Didn't I tell you she is of a suspicious nature? She was asleep when I left, and mostly she sleeps all night. And just because she wakes when I'm out, and lets me come in thinking she's asleep, when she has one eye open all the time, and she sees what I'd never even seen myself—that the string of that damned garment, whatever it is, is fastened to the hook of my shoe, me thinking all the time that the weight was because I'd broken my leg jumping—doesn't she suddenly sit up and ask me where I've been? And I—I'm unsuspicious, Minnie, by nature, and I said I'd been asleep. Then she jumped up and showed me that—that thing—those things, hanging to my shoe, and she hasn't spoken to me since. I wish I was dead."

And just then a dog barked outside and somebody on the step stamped snow off his feet. We were both paralyzed for a moment.

"Julia!" Mr. Dick cried, and went white.

I made a leap for the door, just as the handle turned, and put my back against it.

"Just a minute," I called. "The carpet is caught under it!"

Mr. Dick had lost his head and was making for the spring, as if he thought hiding his feet would conceal him. I made frantic gestures to him to go into my pantry, and he went at last, leaving his hat on the table. I left the door and flung it after him—the hat, of course, not the door—and when Miss Summers sauntered in just after, I was on my knees brushing the hearth, with my heart going three-four time and skipping every sixth beat.

"Hello!" she said. "Lovely weather—for polar bears. If the natives waded through this all winter it's no wonder they walk as if they are ham-strung. Don't bother getting me a glass. I'll get my own."

She was making for the pantry when I caught her, and I guess I looked pretty wild.

"I'll get it," I said. "I—that's one of the rules."

She put her hands in the pockets of her white sweater and smiled at me.

"Do you know," she declared, "the old ladies' knitting society isn't so far wrong about you! About your making rules—whatever you want, whenever you want 'em."

She put her head on one side. "Now," she went on, "suppose I break that rule and get my own glass? What happens to me? I don't think I'll be put out!"

I threw up my hands in despair, for I was about at the end of my string.

"Get it then!" I exclaimed, and sat down, waiting for the volcano to erupt. But she only laughed and sat down on a table, swinging her feet.

"When you know me better, Minnie," she said, "you'll know I don't spoil sport. I happen to know you have somebody in the pantry—moreover, I know it's a man. There are tracks on the little porch, my dear girl, not made by your galoshes. Also, my dearest girl, there's a gentleman's glove by your chair there! I put my foot on it. And just to show you what a good fellow I am—"

Is the furnace oiled and ready for its task? Not much longer in soft breezes may we bask, for the winter soon is due, with its sting and storm and stew—that's the reason, gentle reader, why I ask. Have you banked the house fire the way it ought to be? Have you got a pile of kindling fair to see? Have you got your winter's slate ready for the stove and grate? Oh, you ought to try and pattern after me! For old Winter never hits me unawares. I am ready when he rips around and tears, with my briar and my book, in the cozy ingle-nook, with my feet upon a half a dozen chairs. All the careless man is always in the hole; when the blizzards and the tempests start to roll, he is raging here and there, in his fury and despair, begging dealers for a basketful of coal. And the dealers view his coming with a frown, and they wilt him with a glance and turn him down, for their phones are bringing in, with clangor and a din, such appeals from every corner of the town. How I wish you'd have some sense, you careless crew! How I wish you'd look ahead a day or two, and be ready for the storm with a house that's good and warm, and a larder full of tempting things to chew

The swift, silent messengers who came to do the bidding of the heroes of "Arabian Nights," were no more wonderful than the small but powerful genii of advertising—the Want Ads.

Aladdin reached for his wonderful lamp, rubbed it, said a few magic words, the genii of the lamp appeared, heard his commands and executed them.

Today the business man reaches for his wonderful telephone, takes down the receiver, says a few magic words 7-7-2, The Gazette ad-phone operator answers, hears his commands and a Gazette Want Ad executes them.

Simple, isn't it?

Any time, every time you have a Want Ad for a newspaper remember that The Gazette will carry it into over 6500 homes.

Stop That Cough In A Minute
Would you give morphine or chloroform to your baby or take it yourself? Of course not. Yet most patent cough cures contain one or both. They stop a cough in a minute, which is dangerous. A cough should be cured internally by healing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, throwing it out, which is done by coughing. Badger Cough Balsam does not contain morphine or chloroform. It is made by perspiration from bloodroot, lobelia, pine bark, wild cherry, etc. It cures a cough in a few days without filling the lungs with poisonous phlegm. The irritation is relieved, the lungs healed without danger of pneumonia. It's safe for children or old people. Get a bottle today for 25 cents. Badger Cough Balsam is made by Mr. Pfennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River St.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Oct. 9, 1873. We are pained chronicle the death of George Williams, who died at Battle Creek, Michigan, on Sunday evening and was buried in Janesville yesterday. George was well known in this part of the country and had many warm friends, who will receive the intelligence with the greatest of sorrow. Williams was respected by all those who knew him as a good Christian young man and his loss will be deeply felt and mourned.

A gentleman residing on the east side of the river decided to flagellate his son, a boy of tender years. This noon and he tied him to a tree that he might not escape the affectionate paternal reprimand could be fully bestowed. Attracted by the cries of the youth, a tender hearted young man living across the street crossed over into the lot and requested the stern father to desist under the penalty of an increased head, a gory nose and a dusky eye. The parent acting upon the hint, ceased his corrective operation and the young man went home with a light heart and filled with happiness at the consciousness of a merited act performed. He felt so good about it that he had not been in the house two minutes before he knocked his own father as flat as a postage stamp, because the old gentleman intimated that it was to his best interest not to interfere with his neighbor's affairs. With such a son to gladden his declining years, the father feels that the neighborhood is safe.

Plague at Shreveport, Louisiana:—The fearful ravages of the epidemic has thinned out the ranks of the citizens in a most horrible manner. The stricken ones are dying so fast that no longer funerals are held but the people are fighting for places to hold a burial, throwing the bodies into big holes with no coffin or ceremony. Over four hundred have died from yellow fever up to the present date and there seems no checking of the scourge.

Parcel Post Maps Free with a year's subscription to the Daily Gazette. Value of the map, $1.00. They are on sale at Baker's Drug Store and Gazette office to Gazette patrons; also at 25c or 35c by mail.
